LOCAL NEWS.

There is a boy out at Rosedale whose precocity is after the style of Peck's bad boy. He is a frail little fellow who has seen the robbins nest again for 15 summers, and watches with interest the change in the color of the muskadeine and hails with delight the cool October nights that entice the coon and possum from his summer quarters and causes him to walk abroad these bright moonlight nights. Wednesday night a crowd of his comrades had planned a coon hunt, but his mother who believes in moral suasion, showed a visitor her influence over him by dissuading him from going on the hunt. He easily yielded to her arguments that he was too frail to go out and take the exposure and exert exercise incident to a coon hunt. He received her praise for his prudence, lavished caresses upon him and his prayers, kissed him good night, offered as an excuse a headache and retired early. He went to his room. There he lay in a saintly manner under a blanket, turned down the light, fastened a bolster lengthwise, tucked the coverlet up to his chin, slipped off his shoes and went to sleep. He was soon overpowered by the coon.

Another was retiring, when a slight headache" crept into his head. He rubbed his little head and covered up head. His mother's gentle voice called for his head. "Good night, Alas! a headache" was the result. He was in a bad way.

A Scrap of Paper saves Her Life

It was just an ordinary scrap of wrapping paper, but it saved her life. She was in the last stages of consumption, told by physicians that she was incurable and could live only a short time; she weighed less than seventy pounds. On a piece of wrapping paper she read of Dr. King's New Discovery, and got a sample bottle. It helped her, she bought a large bottle. It helped her more, she bought another and grew better fast, continued its use and is now strong, healthy, rosy, plump, weighing 140 pounds. For fuller particulars, send stamp to W. B. Cole, druggist, Fort Smith. Trial bottles of this wonderful Discovery free, at R. E. Lahn's drug store.

SOME of the farmers say that the heavy rains of last Spring that washed up cotton so bad that it had to be planted over, has been no injury as the late cotton has turned out much better than the early. A farmer who lives only a few miles out said to the reporter yesterday that 12 acres that he planted over the first of June would make him twelve bales.

Our stock is so large that we are compelled to make a sacrifice to early purchasers in order to make more room. So to save money call early, even if you do buy your winter goods a little earlier, as you will find your saving will justify you to store same away even for 6 months.
